City's Social Life

THE GAYETIES AND ACTIVITIES OF THE WEEK

Although the midsummer quiet no longer | journey, and later will go to Burlington, very like the circles of society, there is home after Oct. 15. prevails in the circles of society, there is as yet, very little of importance going on. The younger set, most of whom will leave shortly for their respective schools and colleges, have been quite busy with informal parties of various kinds. Almost every one has returned to town, and while the soclety set are calmly waiting for the gay season to begin, the debutantes, and there are quite a few this season, are planning with fluttering hearts, the conquests they shall make this coming winter.

A Unique Affair.

"It would seem now and then as if soclety devices in delightful entertainment were about exhausted," remarked a little lady just home from a summer up north, "but we were invited to a rarely charming garden party while away. It was called 'a lantern party,' and was given by a lady who owns a summer cottage set far back from a country road-almost in the deep woods. The cards of invitation were decorated with her own delicate drawings and water color sketches of Chinese lanterns and antique lanterns, and the guests were expected to carry lanterns with them; it was quietly noised around that a prize would be given to the bearer of the most unique or artistic lantern.

"As you can imagine, there was much energetic scurrying about in the small town to find something pretty in lanterns. Richard drove several miles out into the country to borrow a quaint old tin lantern he had seen at a farmhouse; but Louise and I contented ourselves with some pretty Japanese lanterns we had in the house. Little Richard was invited, too, and he got together quite a surprising and dazzling achievement in the way of a lantern out of an old eigar box and some red and yel-

dark down the village street carrying our lighted lanterns. The sidewalks here and there were dotted with other guests, also carrying bright lanterns. People on the sidewalks and on the summer piazzas exclaimed at this unusual sight. When we reached the country road leading to the cottage of our hostess the spectacle was even more beautiful. Such a number of bright, yet subdued, lights flitting noiselessly along in the dark. As we neared the cottage we were all spellbound; a beauti- archways and mantels were hung with ful picture was presented-house, porches and the long lane to the great gate hung with colored lanterns of all kinds and sizes. | bunches of lavender asters were arranged After we arrived in the garden and were in the hallway, white asters were in the seated, it was charming to watch all the new arrivals coming up the lane bearing lanterns-a long vista of gigantic fireflies done in bright color. Those who wearied of carrying their lanterns could hang them, ticketed, on one of the verandas; and, before the evening was over, three judges quietly inspected them and made the awards. The chief prize was a lovely little Moorish lantern, and was won by a gentleman who carried a curious little Venetian lantern, which was said to have belonged to Robert Browning. He sent to his Chicago home for it, I learned, and as he was a much-traveled man, no doubt the little literary lantern was authentic.

"To our great surprise, little Richard's cigar-box lantern won the consolation prize -a pretty copy of Stevenson's beautiful essay, 'The Lantern Bearers.'

"Music, conversation and the usual summer refreshments were other features of the evening, but the charm of the lanterns really made all else seem superfluous. Our lantern hostess told me she had once given such a party at her city home, where she knew many artists and curio lovers; and the rallying of beautiful, rare old foreign lanterns on that occasion, she said, really made her heart ache with the envious greed of nonpossession."

Society at the Horse Show.

Unusual interest is being taken in the horse show which will be held in this city in October. Each day the list of box holders increases and it will doubtless not be long before the ninety boxes for the affair will be sold. Society people are naturally present, except one son, who is now on his way home from the Klondike. He was interested in an affair of this kind and indications point to the week of the event as an exceedingly gay one. The boxes will be decorated by the committee, as in such open-air events individual decorations are not customary. Those who have engaged boxes are: Mr. and Mrs. David M. Parry, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Levering, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles mium on it. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman were married in Plainfield, where the latter Mayer, Maj. I. S. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Van Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Ray- ried Sept. 12, 1852, and came immediately mond P. Dr. Hurlestone, of the Trinity Church, New Albany, read the wedding service while the bridal party stood beneath a canopy of Bermuda lilies and green vines in the drawing room. During the service "Oh, Thou Sublime, Sweet Evening Star," from Tannhauser," was played. The attendants were the bride's niece, Miss Katherine De Pauw, of New Albany, and Mr. Arthur K. Bourne, of New York. The ribbons were held by Miss Jane De Pauw, of New Albany, and Miss Emily Camp, of St. Louis. Mr. N. T. De Pauw, a brother of the bride, gave her away. The bride was gowned in duchesse satin, embellished with rose point lace and embroidered with seed pearls. Her veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower of orchids. The relatives of the two families and a few friends only were bidden to the service and the wedding supper which followed. The De Pauw home was handsomely adorned with flowers and paims for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Seaman went on a wedding

Miss Helen Roach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roach, and Mr. Willard C. Wayman, of New Castle, were married Wednesday evening in the Memorial Presbyterian Church, the Rev. F. O. Ballard officiating. The attendants in the bridal party were Messrs. George Lohman, Romona and Cahill, Miss Bess McClintock, Miss Margaret Billings and Miss Mabel Bogart. Miss Mabel Roach, a sister of the bride, carried the ring, and Miss Edna Shelton was flower girl. The ushers were Messrs. Alfred C. Helser, Carl and Harry Briggs and William Christian. Miss Grace Lawler was maid of honor, and Mr. Quirk, of Illinois, was best man. The bride was gowned in white chiffon over white satin, and she carried Bride roses. The bridesmaids wore white, and carried arm bouquets of fall roses tied with white ribbons. Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Roach and the bridal party in receiving the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wayman, the parents of the bridegroom, Miss McFarland and Miss Lawler. Assisting in the several rooms were Mrs. William Overman, Miss Grace Gunningham, Miss Edith Wayman, Mrs. Klimper and Miss Eva Butler, of Cincinnati. Mr. and Mrs. Wayman left for a wedding trip through the East. They will live at the Guilford flats, where they will be at home after Oct. 1.

The marriage of Miss Cora King Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Septimus Smith, and Mr. Charles D. Snyder was solemnized Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, on North Meridian street. The Rev. Virgil W. Tevis, of the Fletcherplace Church, officiated. There were no attendants, all the appointments of the occasion being very simple. Assisting during the evening were Mrs. Charles D. Ferguson and Miss Maude Woolford, of St. Paul. "It was a great lot of fun, going after Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Case, of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder will live at the Emelie, where they will be at home after Oct. 1. CRYSTAL ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Hadley observed the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage yesterday. In the afternoon Mrs. Hadley was the hostess for a large reception and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hadley gave a card party of twenty tables. Their home was elaborately adorned with vines and asters of various shades. The cypress vines and molding of the walls outlined with the green vines. Great library and the parlor where the guests were received had quantities of pink asters arranged on the mantels and in wall pockets. The appointments of the dining room were all in silver, symbolic of the day. The table was laid in silver with a centerpiece of scarlet sage. The light fell from red-shaded candles in crystal candelabra, which stood on the table and buffet. Mrs. Hadley's assistants for the afternoon were Hadley's assistants for the afternoon were
